FLOODS RUSH DOWN RIVER TO ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, July 19—(P)—Main once again pitted ingenuity and sweat today against the treacherous Mississippi as the highest flood waters in more than a century rushed down the Missouri river toward St. Louis.

Flood workers, with time still on their side, labored under a hot sun to bulwark levees from here to Cape Girardeau, 190 miles to the south, even as the crest hit Jefferson City, the state capital, in central Missouri.

The waters, which already have left an estimated $750,000,000 loss in their wake in Kansas and eastern Missouri, submerged some 30 blocks at Jefferson City and hampered electric service to state buildings there. Water inched into the state power plant.

Confidence that St. Louis could stave off major losses turned to fear as the crest of the mighty Missouri moved toward St. Louis and a junction with the Mississippi at about 30 miles a day.

Morton Meyer, president of the St. Louis Flood Control Association, expressed fear that damage here might go as high as it did in the disastrous flood of 1947 if the Mississippi climbs over the 40-foot level as predicted. Damage in 1947 here was estimated at $9,000,000 and another $3,000,000 in the county.

The swollen Mississippi—it stood at 33.6 feet today and flood stage is 30 feet—already has damaged St. Louis river front industry.

The Missouri fell slowly at Jefferson City this morning after reaching 34.21 feet last night, the highest since 1844.

Electric service to the capital and other state buildings was curtailed as water inched into the state power plant.

The Mississippi here has been high for two weeks. Three boys drowned in backwaters of that river south of East St. Louis, Ill., yesterday—bringing to 26 the number of dead from floods in the Midwest.

At Kansas City and in Kansas rescue workers and others continued their task of cleaning up the damage left by the floods last week. Water still was standing in many areas.

Servicemen Living With Families Near Army Posts Being Gouged for Rents

Washington, July 19—(P)—Many servicemen living with their families near big army posts are being gouged for sky-high rents to live "amidst appalling filth and indescribable squalor," senate investigators said last night.

A report by the armed services subcommittee on preparedness was based on inspections made by its investigators on rented quarters near three large defense training centers.

Most senate committee reports are a solid mass of type, but this one was illustrated with photos of some of the shacks being used for housing.

This was done, Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) said, because "some of the hovels were so hideous they could not be described adequately by mere words." "This situation is a disgrace to America," Johnson said in a separate comment. "We are asking our men to sacrifice the comforts of civilian life to ready themselves to fight and die for their country. At the same time, we are forcing them to house their families amidst appalling filth and indescribable squalor."

The report covered Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Camp Rucker, Ala., and Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Another report was promised on housing conditions at Camp Atterbury, Ind., Camp Pickett, Va., and Fort Jackson, S. C.

The subcommittee explained the check was made after it received complaints about substandard housing and exorbitant rents being charged servicemen in many sections.

WADES TO HIS DEATH

Washington, Pa., July 19—(P)—Richard Smith, Jr., 27, of Hope-well township, drowned yesterday when he waded into deep water in an abandoned strip mine hole near his home.

TRACTOR ACCIDENT

Altoona, July 19—(P)—A tractor accident in her father's hayfield killed 13-year-old Nona Jean Shultz of nearby Williamsburg yesterday. The girl, head majorette at Williamsburg high school, was riding on the tractor and fell off as it moved across the field.

Increase In Market Values of Property In Boro Means Hike In Reimbursement from State

The state tax equalization board has advised the Warren school district that its estimate of market values of property in Warren borough has been increased better than two million dollars in the past year, a figure which will mean additional reimbursement from the state for the district.

Market value for 1950, used in computing the reimbursement, has been placed at $31,601,580, members of school board were told at their adjourned July meeting at the high school last night. This is in excess of more than two million over the 1949 figure of $29,538,890 set by the state tax board.

Since state aid is based on the sale value of property divided by the number of teaching units and the latter are determined by the pupil total, Warren's resumption of kindergarten classes and attendant increase of five teaching units will mean a comparable increase in aid received from the state in the coming school term.

Public Probe Into Confidence Racket Opens at Capital

Washington, July 19—(P)—Joseph E. Bennett, a Boston construction contractor, swore today he paid a Washington agent $22,765 to obtain contracts for him but that the agent never produced.

Bennett testified before a special senate investigations subcommittee at the opening of a public inquiry into the operations of a "professional confidence man."

At the outset, chairman, Hoyer (D-NC), said he expected the session to produce testimony that a professional "con man" fleeced a string of "gullible victims" out of about $350,000. Hoyer did not immediately name the man.

Bennett identified the man to whom he paid his money as Samuel D. Mason.

Hoyer declared the victims would not have been taken in if they "had not been willing to lend themselves to a scheme which involved the proposition of bribery."

The North Carolina senator said the alleged "con man" has "a long criminal record." He said the man's most lucrative line apparently was in convincing people the government was going to build new office quarters underground to escape an atomic attack and that he could obtain leases on present buildings.

UNION VOTE IN ERIE

Pittsburgh, July 19—(P)—Some 35 workers of the American Sterilizer Company in Erie are voting today in a National Labor Relations Board sponsored election to determine if they want a union shop. The workers are members of the American Sterilizer Industrial Union.

FUGITIVE PICKED UP BY FRANKLIN POLICE

Franklin, July 19—(P)—An escaped New York prisoner was picked up here early today less than an hour after Franklin police got a phone message from the sheriff of Chautauque County, N. Y.

Officer William Heller captured Harold Rodgers, 35, in a car driven by the prisoner's brother, Joseph, 41. Rodgers broke out of jail July 15. He was being held on a charge of third degree assault.

Conditions for Armistice In Korea Are Proposed by War Vets Serving in House

Washington, July 19—(P)—Four conditions for an armistice in Korea were proposed today by a group of war veterans serving in the house.

Their views were contained in a statement made public by Reps. Armstrong (R-Mo.), Williams (D-Miss.), Van Zandt (R-Pa.), Teague (D-Tex.), Potter (R-Mich.) and Dorn (D-S.C.).

Armstrong said an estimated 100 house members who are war veterans agreed that the following provisions should be included in any armistice in Korea.

"1. No retreat from areas won by the sacrifice of those who have fought the aggressors, and no further recognition of the 38th parallel as a division in Korea.

"2. Immediate return of all prisoners of the United States and other Allied nations, with strict accounting for all who have perished since being taken prisoners by the Reds.

"3. Unification of Korea, looking toward elections to establish a free and democratic regime.

"4. Unrestricted inspection by the United Nations forces throughout all Korea, to insure there will be no build-up of Red power to threaten peace and security of the area again."

The veterans said they felt it was their duty "to warn our armistice negotiators that they are dealing with unscrupulous agents of a regime branded as an aggressor and that the Communist negotiators 'will be speaking not in the interests of their own people but as stooges of Soviet Russia.'"

HOUSE NEARS END OF FIGHT FOR CONTROLS

Washington, July 19—(P)—House members, tempers frayed by partisan bitterness, today neared the end of their long battle over wage, price, rent and other economic controls.

Administration leaders were hopeful of getting down to final voting tonight on a much-amended bill in which they have won some tentative victories, suffered more defeats.

One of these came yesterday when the house voted to ban all price controls which would not allow a "reasonable profit." If finally enacted into law this might cause a review of the thousands of ceiling prices fixed by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), to take into account cost-plus-profit data on all farm and industrial products.

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle assailed the action as "the most damaging blow to price controls" thus far taken. He called it a "cost-plus-guaranteed-profit-on-every-item" plan.

Speaking in support of the amendment, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) asked the house: "What is wrong with profits? How do you expect to get the production we need to beat inflation without reasonable profits?"

Republicans and Democrats alike were conscious of the political implications contained in their decisions on wages and prices. Party leaders made no bones of their hopes that the record in the controls fight will sharply define the fundamental party differences on which political victory may hinge in 1952.

House leaders counted on the possibility of as many as a dozen or more rollcall votes on as many amendments as - with members required to answer "yes" or "no." As a result, the house may find itself spending up to ten hours tomorrow in a series of rollcalls which will reverse or sustain the tentative unrecorded actions thus far taken.

Still to be decided—probably today—were proposed changes in rent and credit controls. These were the principal remaining controversies in the house consideration of a new controls bill to succeed the defense production act. It expires July 31.

Yesterday's setback for the administration came when farm state house members led a fight to push through two amendments to the defense production act which would lift price ceilings on manufactured goods.

But administration supporters with the aid of pro-labor Republicans, succeeded in turning back a drive to shear the wage stabilization board of its disputes-settlement powers and limit it to advisory policy-making functions.

Bids Received For Oil and Gas Leases In New Gas Field

Harrisburg, July 19—(P)—The State Forests and Waters Department has received bids for oil and gas leases on 22,442 acres of state land in Potter, Clinton and Cameron counties.

The acreage was divided into eight tracts, the department said, adding that leases will be awarded after study of the bids on a royalty basis, per thousand cubic feet.

The tracts and unofficial high bidders: 5,761 acres in Wharton township, Potter county and Grove township, Cameron county, John Fox, Boston, Mass., 3.15 per thousand cubic feet.

Eight County Men to Be Inducted August 29

The Warren County Selective Service Board today announced it had received a call from State Headquarters in Harrisburg for eight men for induction into the armed forces.

The men will go to Erie on August 29.

This is the first call for draftees which the board has received since May.

Disappearance Of Convicted Commies Under Investigation

New York, July 19—(P)—A federal grand jury has opened an investigation of the disappearance of four convicted top-ranking U. S. Communist leaders who jump a total of $80,000 bail.

The disappearance of four indicted second-string labor leaders also may be highlighted before the grand jury.

The eight fugitives all were charged with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent revolution. The jury will probe possible obstruction of justice or harboring of the fugitives.

There were these other developments as the investigation opened yesterday:

1. A federal judge set Aug. 20 as a tentative date for the trial of 17 indicted second-string Red leaders arrested June 20.

2. A New York state supreme court hearing was ordered in an investigation of possible banking law violations by the civil rights congress. The congress, listed as subversive, and a Communist front by the attorney general's office, has posted about $440,000 bail in Communist cases in the past three years.

3. A defense move was started to ask a U. S. supreme court justice to set bail for three trustees of the civil rights congress bail fund. They are in jail for contempt of court for refusing to answer court questions about contributors to the fund.

Red Insistence on Withdrawal of All Foreign Troops Threatens Kaesong Talk

Washington, July 19—(P)—Communist insistence on an agreement now to withdraw all foreign troops from Korea shaped up today as a serious threat to the success of the Kaesong truce talks.

While the problem may conceivably be solved, the means to do so do not appear in information available from official sources here. On the contrary, the positions of the two sides are so sharply opposed that it is difficult to foresee how a compromise can be arranged or how either side may back down.

The possibility remains that at the present stage of the talks the main Communist concern may be to discover exactly how great a price they must pay for peace in

Few Local and County Contests Spur Mild Interest In Forthcoming Primary

Voting hours for primary elections in Pennsylvania, which will be held next Tuesday, July 24, are set for 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., daylight savings time, according to county commissioners.

Although the campaign has been quiet, considerable interest has been evinced in several contests, with a Republican fight for the nomination for sheriff, and a Democratic battle for county commissioner.

Seeking the nomination for sheriff are L. E. Linder, present officer, and G. K. Lodge, of Tidoute. Both have been working hard.

For county commissioner, Democratic hopefuls are William H. Olney, present commissioner, Bert J. Hovet, of Barnes, Carl J. Anderson, of Sheffield, and Ralph Summerton, of Tidoute. Two will be nominated.

For county auditor, nominations are sought by Andrew R. Brooks, North Warren, Democrat; Lyle Russell, Democrat; Charles H. Briggs, Sr., Garland, Republican; Arthur H. Fehman, Republican; and J. Elmer Peterson, Tidoute, Republican. Three will be elected.

Candidates for jury commissioner include Margaret H. Hartnett and Peter G. Juliano, both of Warren, both Democrats. Nell M. Eggleston, of Warren, is the Republican candidate for the office.

In Warren boro, the only councilmanic contest develops in the first ward where Robert J. Wilson and Robert Y. Kopf both seek the Republican nomination. Candidates from other wards are unopposed.

Unopposed candidates include the following: Judge Allison D. Wade, Prothonotary Ralph E. Sires, County Commissioners George Seavy and L. L. Johnson, all Republicans and all for reelection.

New unopposed candidates include Homer B. Bowersox, Republican, for county treasurer; and David Potter, manager of Radio Station WNAE, who seeks the same office on the Democratic ticket.

Also in Warren boro, two vacancies on the school board are sought by Charles H. Frantz and J. Russell Hanson, both Republicans. There are no Democratic candidates.

George C. Sarvis is unopposed as Republican candidate for justice of the peace; and Joseph L. Sullivan for high constable.

Democrats Staging Lively Contest For Pa. Supreme Court

Harrisburg, July 19—(P)—A lively contest for the Democratic nomination to the state supreme court tops the 53 judicial contests listed for Pennsylvania's primary election next Tuesday.

The supreme court fight is the only statewide contest on tap in the primary. Judge Michael A. Musmanno of Allegheny county is attempting to unseat Justice Grover C. Lader, of Philadelphia.

Other judicial posts at stake include 38 common pleas court seats, seven orphan's court posts in six counties, two county court seats in Allegheny county, one municipal court seat in Philadelphia and six associated judge seats in as many counties.

Lader, backed by the Democratic state committee, was appointed to the supreme court by

Walcott, Promising to be a Fighting Champion, to Take on Charles First

Pittsburgh, July 19—(P)—Jubilant, excited, 37-year old Jersey Joe Walcott, the oldest man ever to win the heavyweight championship, acted like a colt today as he promised to be "a fighting champion."

"Ezzard Charles deserves to get a return chance at the title and he's going to get it first," said the unmarked, smiling Camden, N. J., veteran at a news conference.

"Charles was shook up pretty much," said Walcott, who knocked out the Cincinnati Negro in 55 seconds of the seventh round last night in another of the amazing upsets that has startled the ring world in the last month.

"Charles gets the return," said Manager Felix Boechicchio. "If we beat him then we'll take on Joe Louis. Joe deserves a chance, too, and we'd love to fight him. Walcott will take care of them both and then we'll take 'em all down the line, Rocky Marciano and anybody else."

"Walcott is the greatest fighter in the world and he's going to be a great champion and defend his title as often as possible. Just like the last two great champions, Louis and Charles."

"We'll also be protected by a return contract," said the manager, "but I don't think we'll need a fifth Charles-Walcott fight. Old Joe will take care of him in September."

Meanwhile, a busy whirl was prepared for Walcott, who said, "I still can't believe it."

NEITHER SIDE GIVING IN ON BASIC ISSUES

Munsan, Korea, July 19—(P)—Korean cease-fire negotiations neared a crisis in a two-hour session today. "No progress" was made, the United Nations said.

Tomorrow's meeting will tell the story, an official spokesman predicted.

"We'll come to an agreement or there will be an air of finality about the disagreement," said Lt. Col. W. J. Preston.

Neither the Communist nor the United Nations delegation would budge from its previous position on the one basic issue under debate, said Preston. He attended the sessions at Kaesong.

The issue is believed to be the Red demand that foreign troops withdraw from Korea, although no one has said so officially.

"Each side was very emphatic in its stand," said Preston. "Never have I heard the same thing stated in so many different ways than today."

"Each statement was just as emphatic—or even more so—than the previous one."

Preston said his remarks had the approval of the United Nations command. Presumably this included Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. The supreme Allied commander flew back to Korea from his Tokyo headquarters in response to a message from his armistice negotiators.

The acuteness of the crisis was indicated by the official U. N. communique. For the first time since talks started July 10 it reported "no progress."

"There is one basic issue that the North Korean-Chinese delegation is holding out for," Preston said. "It was the subject of debate all day."

Thursday night the Red Korean Pyongyang radio emphasized the tone of Communist broadcasts for two days—that the key question is withdrawal of foreign troops. It quoted an official newspaper:

"The solution of the Korean problem hinges on the withdrawal of foreign troops."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il opened Thursday's discussions by asking what the Allies thought of a new cease-fire agenda submitted by the Communists Wednesday.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy replied, the U. N. communique said, by reiterating "the United Nations stand that only matters of a military nature would be discussed."

The Allies consider the question of withdrawing troops from Korea a political one, to be taken up later at a higher level after an armistice has been signed.

Preston said the U. N. was willing to accept agenda items already agreed upon as a complete agenda, and start actual cease-fire talks immediately.

The U. N. Wednesday announced it accepted two items. It didn't say what they were. "No official mention has been made of agreement on any other subjects."

When Joy again told Thursday's conference that only military questions would be discussed,

Camp Atterbury, Ind., July 19—(P)—The 28th Infantry Division began its final phase of training today and for the first time since World War II the former Pennsylvania National Guard unit is at full strength.

Major General Daniel B. Strickler, the division commander, said the exercise, which will carry the soldiers through three days of simulated attack training, "is a long awaited goal of all the soldiers."

After the exercises the division will take part in exercise "Southern Pine" at Fort Bragg, N. C., during August, then in September will prepare for shipment to Europe as announced by the War Department of the Army.

Celebration Group Is Entertained At Picnic by Jaycees

The Warren Jaycees played host to the Fourth of July celebration committee, judges and others who assisted in the recent successful program in observance of Independence Day, at a barbecued chicken dinner and outing at Cinderella Lake, Wednesday evening through the courtesy of W. A. Walker, of the Times Publishing Company.

The festivities started in the late afternoon with swimming, boating and other outdoor sports, and at six o'clock a delectable dinner prepared and served by the Lewis Catering Service was spread on tables set up on the spacious lawn in the shade of the trees that surround the cabin.

Since the event was arranged as a party in appreciation for assistance received from the large number of volunteers who aided the Jaycees in making the celebration the success it was no business was transacted, but later in the evening movies of the parade and other events were shown on a screen erected on the lawn.

It is expected that at some future time the Jaycees will close the business of the 1951 celebration, and discuss possibilities for some program in 1952.

Tot Is Killed In Portland Accident

Portland, N. Y., July 19—A six-month-old boy was killed in a traffic accident here yesterday afternoon and his mother is in a very critical condition in the Westfield Memorial Hospital.

State Police of the Westfield barracks said a panel truck driven by Alonzo R. Walls, 35, of Sagamore, Pa., swerved into a ditch when the brakes locked. Riding in the truck with him were his wife and infant son.

The child, LeRoy Walls, died of a fractured skull en route to the hospital. Mrs. Ethna Hoser Walls, 31, suffered fractures of both legs, concussion of the brain, severe face lacerations, forehead contusion and profound shock.

The accident occurred at 5:45 p.m. The child was pronounced dead upon his arrival at the Westfield hospital at 5:55 p.m. Coroner H. Harry Hemstreet issued a certificate of accidental death.

The driver of the truck apparently was uninjured. Sergeant C. H. Lee and Trooper C. L. McCartney investigated.

The child's death brings the total of automobile fatalities for the county this year to 16, with 11 of them occurring in the north end of the county.

August 10th Deadline for Nominations in Pennsylvania Ambassador Program

Harrisburg — Cooperating with the State Department of Commerce in its annual Pennsylvania Week promotion, the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce will again sponsor the "Pennsylvania Ambassador" awards program as a feature of the statewide observance next October 15 to 21.

In announcing the fourth annual "Ambassador" program, the State Chamber asked over 300 local chambers and other community organizations to submit nominations of distinguished former Pennsylvanians by August 10. Candidates, in order to be considered, must be nominated by organizations in their former "home towns."

The State Chamber, which has a membership of 3,500 business firms and organizations, will appoint a Pennsylvania Ambassador Committee composed of prominent leaders representing varied fields of endeavor in the Commonwealth. This committee will select, from the nominations submitted, those who are to receive the 1951 awards.

As in previous years, the "Ambassadors" will be invited to return to their "home towns" during Pennsylvania Week to receive Ambassador scrolls and aluminum plaques at local ceremonies. The scrolls are signed by the Governor, Secretary of Commerce and the Presidents of the State Chamber and the local sponsoring organization. The aluminum plaques, donated by the Aluminum Company of America, Pittsburgh, bear an engraved likeness of William Penn.

Former Pennsylvanians honored since the awards were inaugurated in 1948 have included such prominent figures as Generals George C. Marshall, Carl A. Spaatz and H. H. Arnold, Admirals H. R. Stark and Joel T. Boone; Industrialists Irving S. Olds (U. S. Steel) and K. T. Keller (Chrysler Corp.); writers Hervey Allen, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Mark Sullivan and Hedda Hopper; Actors Jimmy Stewart and Ethel Barrymore; Athletes Stan Musial and Steve O'Neill; Musical Stars John Charles Thomas, Vaughn Monroe and Donald Voorhees; Princeton University President Harold W. Dodds, and Associate Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson.

Both men and women are eligible for the awards, the basic requirement being that the nominees were born or lived in Pennsylvania, now reside outside the state, and have attained "outstanding achievement" reflecting credit on the Keystone State. Eleven women have been included in the 78 awards given to date.

ERIE POLIO VICTIMS
Eight polio victims of the Erie district's Summer season is a 3-year-old southeast Erie boy, Dr. Felix Shubert, Erie health officer, said Monday. The little boy was admitted to Lake View Municipal Hospital Saturday night. He was placed in an iron lung but more for protection's sake than anything else.

STRIKE PARLEY FAILS
Hopes for an early end to the strike which has idled 1,200 employees of the New York and Pennsylvania Paper Co. for 43 days, faded when negotiations broke off without an agreement. The negotiating committee, representing members of the Johnsonburg Local of the United Mine Workers, District 50 stuck to their original demand that the new contract include a double clause for Sundays. That seemed to be the only stumbling block in the way of a settlement. The company offered the union a seven cents an hour raise, according to a union spokesman.

Local Soldier Is Given Decoration

A special army dispatch from headquarters of the Seventh Infantry Division in Korea brings the news that Pvt. Robert G. Roth, son of Arnold Roth, 8 West Fifth Avenue, has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge "for exemplary performance of duty in ground combat against the enemy."

The decoration was presented to Roth in an informal ceremony at a front line command post by his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Edwin Sayre.

Roth is fighting as a machine gunner with the 17th (Buffalo) Regiment on the central front in Korea. His outfit stormed ashore in amphibious landings at Inchon and Iwon and, later, was the only American regiment to reach the Manchurian border. After capturing the city of Hwachon in the latest United Nations offensive, Roth and his buddies advanced over strongly-defended terrain to secure the high ground east of the "Iron Triangle" city of Kumhwa.

The local man is a veteran for three years' service during World War II, wearing the European Theatre of Operations ribbon with five battle stars, Good Conduct medal, World War II medal, and the American Defense medal.

DODGING LIGHTNING BOLT

It would seem that there are two simple ways to lessen the hazard of becoming a statistical digit in the total of some 250 Americans who intercept a lethal bolt of lightning each year.

One way is to move to Rhode Island. Another is to move from the country to the city, preferably to take residence in a steel-framed building.

These suggestions stem from a report by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians that little Rhode Island has had no deaths from lightning since 1936, and that about nine out of ten fatalities from this cause occur in places with 2,500 or fewer inhabitants.

City dwellers are relatively free from danger, the Metropolitan's safety experts advise, because the steel of the tall buildings acts as a lightning conductor, and because the urbanite usually does not have far to go to reach a place of shelter when caught in a sudden thunder storm.

The safety experts offer these precautions:

Don't seek shelter under a tree, or remain in a broad open field or small boat, or take refuge in a small, isolated shed in an exposed area during the storm. Never stay in swimming; you may be electrocuted by a charge carried by the water from a bolt striking at some distance. The baseball diamond and the golf links as well, can be danger spots when lightning strikes.

Lightning takes a higher toll of life in the summer months than at any other season. The highest death rates are in the mountain and southeastern states. The lowest are in the Pacific Coast, New England and Middle Atlantic areas. About four times as many men as women are killed.

LANGUAGE NO BARRIER TO FUN ABROAD

You don't need to speak a foreign language when you vacation in Europe. Many of the European Travel Commission countries teach English in the schools, and as a result, lots of people speak the language fluently.

Even in places where the majority of them don't understand English, however, hotel and restaurant managers generally do, so that it's a simple matter to arrange for your room and meals.

In the large cities many of the cab drivers and policemen also know enough English to be able to give you directions. If they don't, it's easy to write your destination on a piece of paper and give it to the driver. That generally solves the problem.

If you plan to stay for a while in a European country, you can have a lot of fun by learning some of the more useful phrases in the language and trying them out on the people you meet. You can readily buy phrase books that contain simple and frequently-used sentences in both the foreign language and English, with easy-to-follow instructions for pronunciation. Most of these booklets are small enough to fit into your pocket or purse, so that you can carry them with you on sight-seeing and shopping excursions.

Elsewhere in this issue the Warren County Chapter of the American Red Cross renews an appeal for donors for the next visit of the Bloodmobile unit to local headquarters. Warren has been remiss in recent visits of the unit and all connected with the Chapter and the Blood Collection project are hopeful that the quota will be reached at the July collection. Just call Red Cross Headquarters, 2926, and say you'll be on hand to give your pint of blood.

The joint committee composed of borough officials and representatives of veterans' organizations in the borough and council will meet next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the VFW to complete details for Warren's next important event, the dedication and unveiling of the monument at War Memorial Field, Thursday, July 26.

Now is the time for every qualified elector to plan to cast his vote at the primaries next Tuesday—and do his part in selecting candidates for office in the fall election. Don't be a slacker in a time of emergency. Whatever you do next Tuesday, exercise your right of franchise.

Old Jersey Joe Walcott proves once again there's plenty of wisdom in the old maxim — "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again!"

David's Dilemma

Here And There

Sixty years ago plans were well formulated for the eighth annual Warren County Fair, according to the following item from The Ledger of July 20:

The eighth annual fair of the Warren County Fair Association will be held on the grounds in this city, September 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th. Premiums to the amount of $4,000 in cash will be paid. Four halls full of exhibits, and a large display of pure bred stocks are well worth going miles to see. But in addition to this the society offers many special attractions among which are the Arlington Sisters in their double wire ascension, in which the ladies will meet in the center of a cable, which is only half an inch in diameter, and pass each other, each lady carrying an iron balancing pole sixteen feet long and weighing twenty-four and one-half pounds each. Miss Kate Arlington in feats of walking the cable blindfolded, kneeling on the wire, standing on tiptoes, walking with baskets on her feet. Also an engagement extraordinary of Miss Ravely in her wonderful act entitled "Slide for Life." In performing this wonderful feat, Miss Ravely uses a three-eighths of an inch in diameter steel cable, over three hundred feet long. In making the descent, hanging by the hair, she makes the unprecedented time of 224 feet in six and one-half seconds. Miss Belle Celeste will dive head foremost from a tower fifty feet high into a net, turning in the air while making the descent, and alighting on her feet. Miss May Keeler, the celebrated coronet virtuoso, the most celebrated soloist in the United States, will play coronet solos daily with the different bands in attendance. Should the weather be propitious the crowds at our fair this year will be far in excess of previous years.

This 'N' That: If you are planning a trip east of Kane in the near future it will be well to remember that the eight miles of U. S. Route 6 between Lantz Corners and Kane will be closed starting Monday while a resurfacing and widening program, expected to take several months to complete, is under way. . . . Titusville council members the other evening were in the unusual position of hearing themselves talk twice when they sat back after the meeting and listened to the entire proceedings of the hour-and-a-half talkfest played over a loudspeaker, played by a wire recorder. . . . Warren area will, as usual, be well represented at the annual Kelleysville Old Home Day to be held Saturday, July 28, in the Methodist church grove along the Tionesta creek. . . . The Oil City American Legion post is sponsoring a professional wrestling show Tuesday evening, July 31, at the Ramage-Hasson field. . . . Women golfers in Warren will be interested to learn that Miss Pat Quigley, of the Wanago club, competing in the Butler Invitation golf tournament Tuesday, registered a hole-in-one and had the low net score for the fourth flight, her ace being scored on the 136-yard 15th hole. . . . Kurt Linberg, of Corry, who won the Pennsylvania all bore championship at Huntington a few days ago, is a former Warren resident; Linberg, competing in his fourth state tournament, shot a perfect string of 100 to annex the crown, and on Saturday he won the 20-gauge, all bore title by breaking 97 birds out of 100. . . . Dave Gibb and Ed S. Lowrey took off Wednesday morning about eleven o'clock in the former's skiff, equipped with an outboard motor, for a voyage down the river, arriving at Wildwood cabins about three o'clock, where they put up for the night. . . . The celebration committee, judges and other assistants, numbering about 70 men, had a swell time at the picnic held last evening at Cinderella Lake, through the courtesy of W. A. Walker, with no business whatever transacted, although the general sentiment seemed to be that the event was so successful this year, something should be started in the way of an observance for 1952.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

There'll Be Opposition Galore Against College TV Grants

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Last round in the great educational television debate gets going before Federal Communications Commission July 23. This is where some 800 local comments on FCC's proposed allocation for 1950 available TV channels have to be heard, or somehow disposed of.

Over 400 of these comments are in opposition to what the FCC has proposed to do in making these local allocations. So a lot of people are going to be unhappy, no matter what ultimate decisions are reached. No one has even the remotest idea of when the fight will be over.

The main arguments over whether there should be some channels set aside for the exclusive use of educational TV have already been heard. What's at stake now is the specific allocations. In general, any community having three or more TV channels will have one reserved for non-commercial, educational TV. For communities with less than three assigned channels, one will be reserved for educational TV in college towns or other educational centers.

FCC Chairman Wayne Coy admits that there is a startling lack of data on how many institutions are ready, willing and able to use the TV tool in education. Nevertheless, he would give state legislatures and boards of trustees a couple of years in which to pick up the channels set aside for educational TV.

FCC Commissioner Frieda Hennock has been the principal tom-tom beater for educational TV. She thinks 25 per cent of the total allocations, or 500 channels, should be devoted to educating people, whether they want to be educated or not.

Her point here is that some children are now spending more time in front of TV sets than they do in school. It is folly for educators to ignore this new instrument. Since it's bound to affect children, the question is what kind of influence will it have?

Commissioner Paul Walker, speaking before the National Education Association assembly in San Francisco, put in a good plug for educational TV. If colleges and universities can spend millions of dollars for stadiums and student union buildings—if city boards of education can spend more millions on plant and equipment, Commissioner Walker wanted to know why they couldn't spend $250,000 for a television station?

That, however, is only the initial cost. For full-time operation another $250,000 a year might be required. That's plenty of money, particularly when educational institutions complain they can't pay teachers and professors as much as they should.

SOME institutions are operating television programs on a successful basis. University of Iowa operates a TV station full time on a commercial basis. Michigan State has a complete closed circuit TV in use. Syracuse, through a $150,000 endowment, has a complete TV studio which feeds programs into a commercial station.

University of Michigan and Johns Hopkins sponsor programs. Nineteen colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area joined forces to present a "university of the air" program in adult education. Philadelphia has likewise pioneered in a "school of the air" series of programs for in-class use. They were carried by a commercial station. The New York State Board of Regents has plans for an 11-station TV network for all its schools.

But the principal opposition to all this comes from the commercial TV station applicants. They don't want those channels set aside for educational use exclusively. And they claim they can do the job themselves by carrying public interest programs. They ask, pointedly, what is to keep the listener from turning off education and turning on a cowboy, a sob sergeant, a comic, or even a razzin' match.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
New York—(P) — Too much talk about the slump in some stores and factories may be hiding the fact that the country as a whole is still rocking along at a rate that would be considered good by any normal standards.
A number of people think so, anyway. They note that many of the fundamental business indicators continue a moderate uptrend, and they think that even the distressed industries may soon be doing at least moderately well again.
Earnings statements from two business giants today add to the pleasant scene. American Telephone and Telegraph reports the biggest per share earnings since 1929, and Du Pont says sales are up 32 per cent over last year, but higher taxes cut earnings back slightly.
Optimists point to other things: The industrial production index of the federal reserve board is 14 per cent higher than a year ago and still at a peacetime record high, although its rise has been halted and some think it will slip a little this summer.
Factory employment is reported 16 per cent higher than a year ago, and factory payrolls 27 per cent higher. Electric power output is up 15 per cent over last year and freight carloadings are nine per cent higher.
All of this leads the Pacific Finance Corporation of Los Angeles to say in its "Automotive Digest" that the slump is confined to consumer goods, and price cutting will disappear as inventories decline. The company deals in car and appliance sales financing and it reports a mild improvement in car sales in June, although expecting the summer to be slow. It finds used car prices firmer. And it says home appliance inventories are in much better shape than a month ago and "price cutting has almost run its course."

In the grocery field, the American Institute of Food Distribution says consumer buying for actual use is fully maintained, although there is some resistance to high prices. It thinks food sales will go even higher because the population is larger and families of workers are more fully employed and getting bigger pay checks.

In housing, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports 575,300 homes started in the first half of the year against 705,700 in the first six months last year. But due to rising costs, just as about as much was spent on home building this year as last, around $5.3 billion, according to a joint report of the Departments of Labor and Commerce.

Other forms of construction gained, however. Industrial building was up 108 per cent this year, commercial building up 48 per cent and military facility construction was up 517 per cent. Total outlay for the six months was nearly $14 billion, 16 per cent more than a year ago.

Improvement In General Business In Leading Cities

State College—General business in leading cities of Pennsylvania improved 1 per cent from April to May, and showed a gain of 20 per cent over a year ago, the Bureau of Business Research at the Pennsylvania State College, reported today.

The Index of General Business, as measured by bank debits, factory payrolls, and industrial power sales, stood at 359 in May as compared to 356 in April and 299 a year ago. The index uses the years 1935-36 as 100.

The Bureau also reported that the index of living costs stood at 186.7 in May, a rise of 11 per cent over last year, and a new high. The increase from April to May was less than 0.5 per cent and this was noted in spite of the decrease of 0.5 per cent in food prices.

New May records were established for bank debits, life insurance sales, industrial power sales, building contracts, postal receipts, and telephones.

Statistics in Warren for May are as follows: Building operations, $19,670; industrial power sales, (not listed); new car and truck sales, (county), 184; postal receipts, $91,904; telephones in service, end of the month, 8,760.

W P L REPORTING

Among recent books received by the Warren Public Library are the following:

THE TEAHOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON, by Vern Sneider—Captain Fishy was in charge of reconstruction in a village of Okinawa. He failed to put into effect his colonel's Plan B (which included the making of bicycles); but, with the help of mutual misinterpretation of ambitions and a sort of muddled, general goodwill, Fishy built up a new economy for the natives which was impressive, to say the least. This story is compounded of jobs at Army planning, much local color and some hilarious situations.

THE SCANDALOUS MRS. BLACKFORD, by Kane and LeClerc—This is a biographical novel, based on the life of Harriet Ely Blackford, a Philadelphia belle of the nineteenth century whose affair with the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia caused much buzzing over the tescups. The book contains descriptions of court life, tales of political intrigue among the Romanovs as well as the tragic love story in which diplomats of both countries were involved.

THE TROUBLED AIR, by Irwin Shaw—The director of a popular radio program, who has been ordered to fire five actors because of suspected Communist tendencies, asks for two weeks to investigate the charges. The problem as it is finally revealed is compounded of the warring elements of communism and fascism, both masquerading as democracy.

WATCH OUT FOR THE WEATHER, by Berke and Wilson—Here is the first general book on the weather and its effects on moods, disease, business, accidents, crime and an amazing variety of other human disease phenomena. The text is written with brisk informality and the illustrations are both informative and amusing.

ROADS TO AGREEMENT, by Stuart Chase—This is a practical handbook describing successful methods of arriving at group decisions. Mr. Chase cites the Anglo-Saxon jury, the Quaker business meeting, modern conference leadership as well as other examples of the science of human relations.

Not so long ago

It wasn't long ago that a nickel would bring you a hot dog with all the trimmings at almost any roadside stand. Today, it's apt to be 15 cents.

Don't blame the man who serves 'em up. Blame the dollar. The dollar buys less today than ever before.

We are feeling the pinch, too.

The cost of supplies and equipment used in the telephone business is going up and up, just like the cost of supplies and equipment for other businesses.

In spite of this, we have been able to provide good, low-cost telephone service that continues to grow in value.

Even if it should cost more, your telephone service, in comparison with other things, would still be a big, big bargain.

RENT CONTROL NEWS RELEASE

Office of The Housing Expediter, Area Rent Office, 707 Commerce Building, Erie, Penn'a

QUESTION: I have recently moved to Erie. The only apartment I was able to locate was a furnished apartment which has a very high rent. I find that my apartment was previously rented unfurnished for many years. My landlord seems to think that because she put furniture into the unit that it is no longer under rent control. Is this correct?
ANSWER: Your landlord is incorrect in her assumption. The mere fact that the landlord has put furniture into the apartment does not free it from rent control. The legal rent for your unit is the legal rent for the unfurnished unit until such time as the landlord petitions the rent office for an increase because of the furniture and secures an order from the Rent Office increasing the rent.

QUESTION: One of my relatives will shortly be evicted from the apartment he has been living in because a new owner wishes to occupy his apartment. He has been unable to locate satisfactory quarters. My landlord is willing to let them live with us for the present if he gets enough of an increase in rent. What can we do to get this determined?
ANSWER: It is suggested that your landlord submit a prior opinion letter to the Rent Office requesting the Office to give him a prior opinion as to what increase will be approved if your relatives move in. The landlord should indicate the present and freeze date number of occupants. Unless there is definite evidence of subletting the decision of the Rent Office would be based on the determination of whether the occupancy would be above normal to this size, class, and location of housing unit.
QUESTION: I have been renting an apartment from a landlord who has operated a grocery store in the same building. This landlord has now leased the grocery store to another individual and has ordered me to move so that the new store operator can have my apartment. Do I have to move?

ANSWER: You do not have to move unless the owner secures a certificate relating to eviction from the Rent Office permitting him to evict you for the occupancy of the new store operator. If such certificate were issued you would normally be given three months time from the filing of the petition to secure new quarters. However, on the basis of the facts outlined by you it does not appear that the Rent Office would issue such a certificate relating to eviction. QUESTION: If I rent the flat I have occupied for many years to my son, will it be under rent control?

ANSWER: It will be under rent control and should be registered with the Rent Office within thirty days of the date of such rental. tntmveovntimeoovebeddMar-

Gathering Honors Akeley Methodist Native of County Pastor-Wife Given On Anniversary Parish Reception

Lander, July 19—Mrs. Mae Alcorn, Panama, N. Y., formerly of this place, celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary Tuesday, when the following friends from Lander gathered at her home:

Mrs. Stella Cowles, Mrs. Bert Strong, Mrs. Kenneth Head, Mrs. Zigmont Kaczar, Mrs. Harry Mahan, Mrs. George Mahan and daughter, Jean, Mrs. Arvid Gruber, Mrs. Viola Firth, Mrs. Jay Hinesdale, Mrs. Elmer Swanson, with Mrs. Otis White, Busti, and her granddaughter, Betsy Firth of Lander.

Other callers were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Alcorn, Titusville; Mrs. Iva Clark, from California; Mrs. Gene Hatch and nephew, Willis Hatch, Williamsville.

Mrs. Alcorn was born Mae Hatch on July 17, 1871, at Hatch Run, where her great-grandfather, Erasmus Hatch, had settled. She was the eldest of eight children born to William and Daphnia Higgins Hatch. Two brothers, Byron and Roy Hatch, reside on the site of the original homestead, and a sister, Mrs. Ralph Brooks, lives in North Warren.

Mae Hatch and Willis D. Alcorn were married in April, 1885, and lived in Titusville for two years before coming to Lander and residing on a farm on Miller Hill. They had two children, Willis, Jr., with whom she makes her home at present, and Dorothy Alcorn Firth, who died in July, 1947. Mr. Alcorn died in June, 1945.

She also has six grandchildren who joined in the celebration of her anniversary. Although not in the best of health, she is able to be about the house and enjoyed the gathering of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Mae Pochey Honored by Class For Anniversary

Russell, July 19—On Tuesday afternoon, the Win Them Class members of the Methodist gathered for a party which marked the 32nd birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mae Pochey.

She was presented with a gift from the class and Mrs. Fuhrer remembered her with a lovely bouquet of flowers. Fifteen members and the following guests were present to enjoy the party and wish her "many happy returns": Mrs. Clara Wright, Mrs. Amanda Swanson and Inez Gregory.

During a business session held by the class, the following were elected to serve as its officers: President, Mrs. Paul Wood; vice-president, Mrs. Claud Perigo; secretary, Mrs. Edson Bailey, assistant secretary Mrs. Martha Houghwot; treasurer, Mrs. Levi Learn; teacher, Mrs. Alice Moll; assistant, Mrs. Gerry Briggs; chaplain, Mrs. George Hedges.

Mrs. Ernest Peterson and Mrs. Martha Houghwot were in charge of the program, Mrs. Peterson reading several poems, and Mrs. Hedges giving a talk about a meeting she attended in Akron where a speaker talked about his visit to the Holy Land. Mrs. Paul Wood gave an original poem.

You Can 'Happy' Marriage, If You Know How Simple It Is

JUDGING from the way many of the "experts" sound off on marriage you get the idea that for two people to have a happy marriage is one of the world's most difficult jobs.

Maybe one reason why we have so many marriage failures today is that they've succeeded in selling that idea to Mr. and Mrs. America. Let's unself ourselves. Granting that a man and woman are in love when they marry, why should creating a happy marriage be such a difficult and never-ending job?

If they're in love and have the good fortune to be able to marry each other, why shouldn't they be happy?

They will be if they want to be. If they want a happy marriage enough to try to make each other happy.

That's all there is to a happy marriage—just a man and woman who have chosen each other for life and taken on the responsibility for making the other's happiness a guiding principle of their lives.

HAPPINESS IS VERY PERSONAL IN MARRIAGE

THE "experts" so often talk about a "happy marriage" as though it were an impersonal thing. It isn't. It's just two people who are concerned enough for each other's welfare to be understanding, unselfish, loving, honest and helpful.

Is that too difficult for adults who have fallen in love and agreed to take each other for better or worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health?

It shouldn't be. There shouldn't be anything frightening or discouraging about such a prospect.

The "experts" keep throwing statistics at us which only discourage us, they keep harping on marriage "problems" until we get to thinking more in terms of problems than in terms of living each day as it comes.

Let's unself ourselves on those discouraging concepts and remember that a happy marriage is nothing more than two married people who love each other and want each other to be happy.

Day Camps Are the Vogue

With Warren County Girl Scout Council territory better organized under a district system this year, more girls are being given the opportunity of participating in camping activities. This is particularly true of the Brownies, with a number of Day Camps being operated successfully.

More than sixty girls of Sheffield and Clarendon gathered at the Warr-Penn picnic grounds for such a camping program, their activities including first aid, nature study, dramatics, arts and crafts, and camp craft. The group cooked part of the noon-day meal each day and a registered nurse, Mrs. William McIntosh, was present each day to look after the health of all participants.

Mrs. Harold Stover was camp director, with the following as her assistants: Mrs. Delbert Slives, Mrs. Laurence Stots, Mrs. Jack Cronmiller, Mrs. Clarence Studley, Eva Brown, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Richard Moore, Mrs. Art Boardman, Mrs. William Bidwell, Mrs. Ray Lee, Mrs. Wayne Chamberlain and Mrs. Ben Johnson.

District II Brownie Day Camp competed a very successful season at the community house in Cable Hollow, with women from North Warren, Russell, Akeley, Scandia and Irwindale troops on hand to furnish transportation and serve as leaders.

After the day's opening exercises, the units enjoyed hikes, with special attention given to nature study. Each unit built its own fireplace of stones and cooked food which supplemented a nose bag lunch. To learn the proper use of jack knives, the girls made their own roasting sticks and a picture frame. All campers were taught to fold flags and to make a bed roll.

On the closing night, each troop presented an act arranged for the program, with both new and old songs enjoyed by the entire group. Twenty-two Brownies spent Friday night sleeping in bed rolls, for many of them their first such experience. The camp was declared a most successful one because of the excellent cooperation of all participating.

Serving as the staff were Mrs. Herman Moll, district leader; Mrs. Jerol Angove, director; Mrs. Ben-ton Balatow, food chairman; Mrs. W. W. Owens, program; Mrs. El-ton Anderson, equipment; Mrs. R. W. Hammar, nurse.

Leaders throughout the week included Mrs. Allen Arthur, Mrs. Leonard Haller, Mrs. Ronald Fehlman, Mrs. Donald Fehlman, Mrs. Kermit Larson, Mrs. Stanley Lawson, Mrs. H. M. Bailey, Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mrs. Dale Rickerson, Mrs. Conrad Swanson, Mrs. Rudolph Erickson, Mrs. John E. Allen, Mrs. Ed

M. Rogers, Mrs. George Wilcox, Mrs. L. E. Hamilton, Mrs. M. L. Crump, Betty Wheelock and Marilyn Erickson.

The gathering included the three remaining members of the original Young family, Mrs. Mayme Cole, Mrs. Katie Saeger and David Young.

A tureen supper was served at 6:30 o'clock and a very enjoyable evening was spent in an impromptu program of vocal solos, duets, instrumental numbers and recitations. One of the highlights was the singing by Lester Akeley of old Harry Lauder songs in the Lauder manner.

Robert Young presented Miss Young with a purse of money in behalf of the group, which included friends and relatives from Warren, Jamestown, Russell and vicinity.

Heard on the Party Line

In the Sunday social section of the Erie Dispatch-Herald, a group picture of newly-elected officers of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association includes Mrs. Harold Banghart, Warren, who is the secretary-treasurer of the group. The meeting and election were held at the Kahkwa Club, Erie, where the picture was taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Verros, Salamanca, had a wedding anniversary Wednesday, their sixth. Mrs. Verros is the former Crissie Danas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Danas, East Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Edward Highhouse and Mrs. Robert Welland have left for New York City to deliver a car to Pier 13 for shipment to the latter's brother, Donald Carlson, storekeeper second class, stationed in Trinidad. Mrs. Joan Carlson and small son, John, will sail about July 26 to be with their husband and father. Miss Jackie Kittner and Miss Barbara Anderson accompanied Mrs. Highhouse and Mrs. Welland to take in a little sight-seeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and son Roger, along with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson have arrived home after a pleasant trip to California. Highlights of their trip included appearance of the latter couple on the network show, "The Perfect Husband", in Hollywood. Competing with three other couples, Mr. Johnson earned first place in the judges' voting but was accorded second by the audience. One of the natural beauty spots visited was Yellowstone National Park, where ten inches of snow fell on July 19 and it was necessary to close the area to tourists.

Among local teachers attending summer schools is Mrs. Gerda Lawrence, art instructor at the high school. Mrs. Lawrence is studying ceramics at the New York State College of Ceramics, which is a part of Alfred University, and modern art with C. Katherine Nelson of Alfred University.

Aid to Homemakers

Miss Helen Denning, nutritionist on the extension staff of Pennsylvania State College, will be in Warren county next Tuesday and Wednesday, July 24-25, to lend homemakers a hand with their food preservation problems.

Two demonstration meetings have been arranged, one at Youngs-Hill Grange on Tuesday; the second, at the North Warren Presbyterian church on Wednesday. These will be all-day sessions, starting at 9:00 a. m. with canning by water bath and pressure cooker methods and an afternoon session, at 1:30, when Miss Denning will exhibit and explain the latest methods of preparing and packaging foods for freezing.

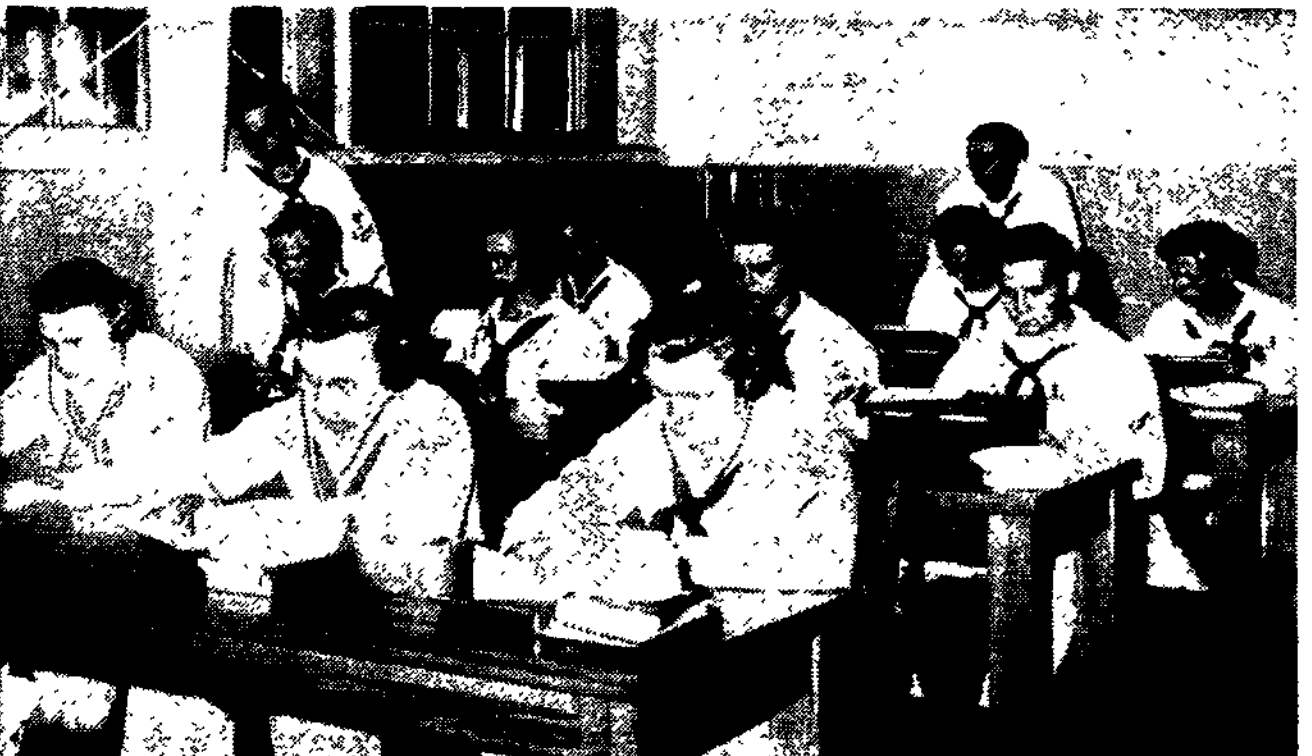

Every homemaker interested is cordially invited to attend these meetings, one of the many services provided by the extension office, and to bring a lunch and stay for the entire program.

The conservation of food is of vital importance in the nation today and patriotic homemakers are being urged to do their share in preserving foods available now in order to meet the nutritional needs of their families in the future.

Miss Denning has done research and experimental work along these lines and is qualified to help with any and all freezing and canning problems.

Contest Waged for Selection of Queen Pres. Says Charge To Reign Over Clarendon Old Home Week By McCarthy Silly

The contest is under way for selection of the Clarendon Fire Department Queen, who is to reign over the Clarendon Old Home Week Celebration being sponsored by the department the week of July 31 to August 4.

Coronation ceremonies for the selected queen will take place at the carnival grounds at 7:30 p. m. August 2, at which time the newly organized Fire Department Band will give a pop concert.

The contestants must be between the ages of 16 and 22, and live in Clarendon Borough or Mead township to be eligible. The one receiving the highest number of votes will be queen and the four runners-up will make up her court. Selections will be made by donations being placed in drums located throughout the town, each penny donated to count as one vote for the candidate chosen. Attractive prizes will be awarded the winners.

The Old Home Week celebration will get under way Tuesday, July 31, at the carnival grounds, Wednesday being turned over to the Fire Department Auxiliary with a concert by the Accordion Band along with other entertainment. The department concert will be Thursday and on Friday night the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 214, will sponsor the Kiddies Parade.

A mammoth parade will wind up the week's activities on Saturday, when there will also be a grand prize awarded.

It is anticipated a large group of old timers who have been away from Clarendon for a long time will be back to attend the do-

Washington, July 19 — (AP) — President Truman said today the idea that Secretary of Defense Marshall is involved in a great conspiracy against the United States is one of the silliest things he has ever heard.

On June 15, Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) told the senate that Marshall was a "mysterious, powerful" figure in a "great conspiracy" to deliver this country to Communism.

Without mentioning McCarthy by name, a reporter asked Mr. Truman at today's news conference what he thought of the charge.

After calling it silly, Mr. Truman said he didn't think it helped the country when people supposedly responsible for its welfare made irresponsible charges of that kind.

NO BREAK-IN

Police were called to the west side about 2:15 a. m. today when it was thought that a break-in was being attempted at the Pratt Charcoal Hot stand. Officers found a couple of tourists parked and preparing to sleep in their car near the stand.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Chief of Police Mike Evan said this morning that a young man picked up by police early yesterday afternoon for bothering a nine-year old girl, was locked up and charged with disorderly conduct. Investigation by police show that the youth did not touch the young lady, but may have made overtures in that direction by fers to buy her candy.

KIDS AGAIN

City police were concerned with several kid calls yesterday. One affair involved damage to a garden on the east side, owned by an 82 year old lady. Police explained to the kids the work involved in keeping a garden, and they promised to desist from further damage. Another call came from the west side where a gang was bothering around a warehouse.

PASSENGER INJURED

Shirley Dunn, of Bradford, was treated at Warren General Hospital about one a. m. yesterday for abrasions, brush burns and a dislocated right arm, sustained when she fell from a moving car at Pennsylvania and Dartmouth streets. According to the police report, operator of the car was David P. Taylor, 13 Dartmouth street, who told police that as he was making a turn, the door on Miss Dunn's side of the car accidentally opened, allowing her to fall to the pavement. She was discharged after treatment.

FLORIDIAN COMPANY PICNIC

The 15th annual picnic of the Floridian Company was held Wednesday, at Mayville Park. Swimming and various games were enjoyed by all—the highlight being a mulligan game between "Dietsch's Diamond Dandies" and "Christie's Clobbering Clodhoppers." Aided by the brilliant fielding of Cowboy Rieder and the questionable pitching of Fishhook Jones, the Clodhoppers emerged victorious. Missouri Moore and Sticker Streich were outstanding for the losers. With some exceptions, the officiating was capably handled by Beans Jackson, Babe Mowell, and Jocko Rock.

After a delicious chicken dinner, the ladies settled down to a series of games with prizes galore the objective, and the men continued with the barmyard golf tournament. The finals found Koebley and Irvin pitted against Wilbur and Hill but with all even, darkness forced the cancellation of the final game and the termination of a most enjoyable outing.

MYERS CALLS FOR THE ELECTION OF LADNER

Philadelphia, July 19—(AP)—Calling for the nomination of Justice Grover C. Ladner to the state supreme court, former U. S. senator Francis J. Myers has termed Ladner's race against Judge Michael A. Musmanno, Pittsburgh, as the "most important judicial fight" in Pennsylvania history.

In a statement Myers charged yesterday that Musmanno is indulging in falsehoods and "vitriolic personal attacks" in his campaign to defeat Ladner.

The ceremony was performed in the Baptist parsonage at Frewsburg on July 8 by the Rev. James E. Mitchell. Attendants were Erma Spicer, of Lander, and George Anderson, of Akeley.

The bride wore a light blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

cigarette-smoking General Nam replied with an 18-minute statement. The U. N. said it was obviously "previously prepared in anticipation of the United Nations command reply."

When all the translations of Nam's statement had been completed, Admiral Joy, as head of the U. N. delegation, called for a recess.

He led his four fellow negotiators into their tent. There an urgent dispatch to Ridgway was prepared. Ridgway reached Korea two hours after Thursday's session adjourned.

After the recess delegates argued straight through the noon hour, without their customary recess, on the same subject. They adjourned at 1:25 p. m.

Brig. Gen. Nuckols, deputy information chief of the U. N. command, said: "I believe tomorrow will be an important day."

Friday's meeting is scheduled for 10 a. m. (7 p. m. Thursday EST). Despite the sharp cleavage in views, Preston said he would not call it a deadlock.

New York, July 19—(AP)—Babe Ruth, who made an estimated $1,425,000 in a quarter century of baseball, left a net estate of $360,000.

Final figures on the estate—whittled by the home run king's spending habits—were approved yesterday by estate tax appraiser Samuel E. Lepler.

Ruth, who died of cancer three years ago at the age of 53, left his widow a life interest in a $179,611 trust fund and in the estate after all other bequests are taken out. The widow, Mrs. Clara Mae Ruth, also got $5,000.

Bumper Crop of Apples, Corn and Oats Is Predicted For Farms in Pennsylvania

Harrisburg — War emergency food production from Pennsylvania farms this season brightened greatly with generally favorable weather during June, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

Federal-State surveys as of July 1 indicate there will be bumper crops of corn, apples and oats. In some areas peaches should reach bumper proportions.

Initial estimates show all Pennsylvania crops except potatoes, rye, pears and grapes this year will be produced in amounts higher than the 1940-49 average, the department said.

Crops of corn, wheat, oats, hay, apples, peaches, pears and cherries will be larger than last year. Good weather and cultural practices have aided in boosting yields per acre this year above 1950 yields except for barley, with yields for oats and rye the same as last year.

All Pennsylvania farm crops grew rapidly during late June, but weather interfered with haymaking and grain harvesting. The department said. Hay was the best crop in years in many localities but much spoiled in the fields due to what farmers call "catchy" weather which prevailed in all areas. Cultivation of corn was delayed by wet weather as knee-high and waist-high corn awaiting final working, leaving many fields weedy and grassy. In the north central area wire worm damage was reported in some replanted fields.

Wheat was generally well filled by July 1 and like oats, was on long straw. Rust damage showed in some fields in the southeast and damage by leaf hoppers and flies was reported severe in some localities. Barley harvest started in late June but much got wet in the shock. Winter oats were ready to cut by the first of July. Many soybean fields were weedy and some yellowing appeared in low spots due to wet weather.

All potatoes made excellent vine growth but rains hampered cultivation and spraying. Late blight showed up by July 10 in the Lehigh-Northampton area. Early cobs are being dug in southeastern counties. In some localities as much as 10 per cent of the tobacco acreage was unplanted by July 1 and prospects are for a smaller crop than last year.

All fruits grew well and sized nicely during June.

Estimated production of Pennsylvania major field and fruit crops as of June 1, with 1950 totals in parentheses, follow:

Corn, 66,720,000 bushels this year (60,834,000) last year; winter wheat, 19,458,000 bushels (19,184,000); oats, 31,730,000 bushels (29,944,000); barley, 4,544,000 bushels (5,644,000); rye 155,000 bushels (202,000); potatoes, 16,600,000 bushels (18,525,000); tobacco, 58,752,000 pounds (61,365,000); all hay, 3,741,000 tons (3,641,000); commercial apples, 9,000,000 bushels (8,930,000); peaches, 2,436,000 bushels (2,194,000); pears, 372,000 bushels (359,000); all cher-

HUDDELE THAT LED TO MUDDLE—Allied correspondents are shown gathered around Communists who stopped the newsman, headed for Kaesong peace talks, just a mile inside Red lines. This is the incident that led to a UN ultimatum stating that until correspondents for the world free press were admitted to Kaesong to cover the armistice negotiations, the Allies would not take part in further cease-fire conferences. UN sources, however, regard the news coverage issue as secondary. The real issue, it is reported, is whether peace talks shall be conducted on a free and equal basis or under the guns of Red Troops. Governor Calls For Participation In National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28

Following a recent statement by Governor John S. Fine urging observance of National Farm Safety Week in Pennsylvania July 22-28, State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst announced active participation during the week by nationally known educators and farm leaders.

Horst is chairman of the committee in charge of the safety week program in the Commonwealth.

Messages stressing the importance of using safety precautions in all farm activities on a year-round basis will be provided during the week by the following, in addition to Secretary Horst:

ter county, president of the State Rural Safety Council and Samuel L. Horst, chief of the farm safety education division, State Department of Public Instruction.

Governor John S. Fine, in a recent statement on farm safety said 15 persons had been killed in tractor accidents during the spring work season on Pennsylvania farms. Continuing, he said:

"The accidental death rate for farm workers is more than twice as high as for workers in non-agricultural industries. Last year the rate for farm workers was 87 per 100,000 in the United States and in non-farming work it was 22. This means that greater emphasis than ever before needs to be given to safety education and to the avoidance of preventable accidents on our farms. Food production efforts are being handled by fewer people each year. The output of each worker therefore becomes more important."

Poison Ivy Being Attacked By State

Poison ivy which has been the cause of a great many lost man-hours among maintenance forces of the Department of Highways may soon be eliminated from roadsides under a program now being conducted.

Not only has poison ivy been responsible for much lost time among workers but it has also proven equally dangerous to those who stop along the highways for picnics or to correct motor difficulties.

District Highway Foresters have been provided with more than 360 gallons of a herbicide consisting of a combination of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T with which they are now spraying young and old growth poison ivy. Many sprayed areas have shown almost a hundred per cent kill within a week following an application.

Extreme care is exercised in the use of the chemical to prevent loss of valuable erosion control plants.

Twenty Candidates Will Compete For State Potato Queen

Harrisburg—State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst on July 27, for the ninth consecutive year, will crown a Pennsylvania Potato Blossom Queen.

Up to 20 candidates are expected to compete for the title of Potato Blossom Queen for 1951-52. Each is between 17 and 21 years of age and the daughter of a Pennsylvania potato grower, the secretary said. The present queen, crowned last August, is Miss June Keener, Fawn Grove, York county. An entirely new feature has been announced for the field day this year, a fall fashion show for farm women, scheduled for Friday morning, July 27. It is to be staged with the cooperation of a national wool institute and a large mail order house. Potato Blossom Queen contestants will serve as models. This is said to be the first showing of ladies' fashions for fall and winter in the United States.

The field day program opens on Tuesday morning, July 26, with a demonstration of new machines used by potato growers, followed by inspection of potato test plots that are operated by the association as an experimental project in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State College. Other events include a grading and packing demonstration, discussion of soils suitable for potato production, also the importance of fitting a grassland program into the rotation for best results in growing potatoes. A land clearing demonstration is set for Friday morning.

Annual potato picking contests to determine state champions will be held Friday morning for men, boys and women.

Preceding the crowing of the queen, short talks are scheduled by Clarence Pulling, Mayor of Erie and honorary mayor of Potato City; Dr. E. N. Nixon, State College; Hugh C. McPherson, Bridgeport, president, and Ivan Miller, Corry, first vice president of the Potato Growers Association.

Penn'a Grade Crude Producers Submit Proof of Pipe Need

The Pennsylvania Grade crude oil region must step up its 1951 drilling rate 21 per cent over last year and complete 2,680 wells this year to maintain its production rate and assure area refineries a steady supply of crude.

Last year's drilling in the area embracing southwestern New York, western Pennsylvania, and West Virginia totaled 2,157 wells. Four associations of regional oil producers have joined in submitting this information to the production division, Petroleum Administration for Defense at Washington in a bid for that agency's help in obtaining enough pipe of the proper type to drill the wells. The report said that, based on an Oil and Gas Journal estimate this year, the Penn Grade region has crude oil reserves of 195 million barrels recoverable by present methods under current economic conditions. These oil reserves possible of recovery were estimated at more than 637 million barrels by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission in 1950, the report added, when "the price-cost ratio was more favorable."

In addition to poison ivy, spraying is done within highway rights-of-way on other noxious or undesirable weeds such as Canada Thistle, horse nettle, wild mustard, ragweed, common mullen, wild chickweed and Pokeweed.

Spraying with herbicides also has been found profitable in areas back of guard rails, around bridges, culverts, and other structures where mechanical control of weeds is either costly or impractical.

The Girl Next Door

(Chapter 3)

EDITH called on Marcia Eldon a few days later. To her surprise, when she suggested that Betsy might like to go with her, Betsy agreed, as listlessly as she agreed to anything these days.

The house had been closed for a long time and, although it had been thoroughly cleaned, it still held the odor of age. A more depressing room, Edith told herself, she had seldom seen. She shuddered a little, and as she did so a woman came into the room.

"I don't blame you. It is a chamber of horrors, isn't it?" said Marcia Eldon.

Edith said quickly, "I'm your next-door neighbor, Edith Drummond, and this is Betsy, my daughter."

"Oh, Betsy and I have met, haven't we? Do sit down—if you can stand this ghastly place," said Marcia, and dropped into a chair.

"Well," she said, "what shall we talk about?"

Edith flushed. "I merely came to tell you I hope you'll be very happy in Centerville."

"Thanks, but I don't expect to be," Marcia announced coolly. "But I'm sentenced to a year here, so." She lifted her shoulders in a little shrug.

"I'm sorry you feel that a year in Centerville is equal to a prison sentence," Mrs. Eldon said. "I'm surprised you would come here, feeling that way."

"I had no choice in the matter. I had to find a quiet place where I could live inexpensively. When Lucy Cunningham offered me this old barn, rent free for a year, what else could I do?"

Edith hid a natural and lively curiosity.

"How is Lucy, by the way? I haven't seen her in years," she said.

Marcia's smile was one of secret amusement.

"Then it's obvious you haven't seen Lucy recently," she drawled. "She's making a perfect fool of herself, throwing money away with both hands, sponsoring a lot of cheap little 'hangers-on' who profess artistic ambitions but are simply allergic to honest work."

Edith's eyes flashed, but she could speak Marcia lifted a long, maroon-nailed hand and said, "Sorry. That sounds pretty low of me, when I am one of Lucy's 'hangers-on' and quite glad of a chance to sponge off her, doesn't it? But then, I really am an artist."

"Oh," said Edith politely. "You paint?"

"I'm a singer," returned Marcia. "And a very good one with a great deal of promise. I'm heading for opera. I was fool enough to play too hard, and work too hard, and I ran into a bout with pneumonia that left my throat in bad shape. I have to take a year off."

"I see," said Edith, merely to be polite, because she didn't see at all.

Marcia roused herself a little and remembered to be a hostess. "Shall we have tea? Or would you prefer cocktails?" she suggested.

"Neither, thank you. I'm afraid we must be going," Edith stood up. "We are your next-door neighbors, and if there is anything we can do to make your stay—well, less painful—we shall be happy to do so."

BETSY thrust her hand through Edith's arm and said, "And now, let's have a soda, maybe some shopping, and walk the old man home."

As she steered her mother toward the town's favorite drugstore, Edith protested futilely. "Don't call your father the old man! It's not respectful!"

Betsy grinned. "He loves it," she said, and Edith knew it was true. Before she could manage an answer, Molly Prior hailed her from a table near the front of the drugstore.

Betsy went on to a booth at the back of the room, while another chair was crowded into Molly Prior's table.

Edith's eyes followed Betsy, as she joined the "gang." There were almost a dozen boys and girls Betsy's age—the "high school set," they called themselves. Edith's heart eased a little as she saw the welcome they gave Betsy.

"You're not listening, Edith! We are hearing the Eldon creature to bite," said Molly.

Edith looked around at her friends. "Mrs. Eldon, at the Cunningham place?" "I've just come from there. Betsy and I called on her," Edith explained.

"What's she like?" demanded Anne Hutchens.

"Why, she's beautiful and very sophisticated looking—" Edith hesitated.

Molly interrupted. "I don't like her, either." She said, "She's definitely a menace and I for one, intend to keep my husband under lock and key while she's in town."

The others laughed, knowing Tom Prior's devotion to his wife and her frank adoration of him. "I'm afraid both you and Tom will get pretty tired of that," said Edith. "She plans to be here a year. She told me so."

The others looked startled.

"She's a singer, and she's been ill. She's here to recuperate and regain her voice," explained Edith.

Molly eyed her with respect. "Leave it to little Edith to get the real lowdown!"

"I'm surprised Lucy Cunningham would rent the place, or could it be that even Lucy is feeling the pinch of poverty?" mused Anne.

The others laughed. "I don't think so," answered Edith. "I mentioned Lucy, and Mrs. Eldon said casually that she was maintaining a sort of 'salon' of young artists, and that she had given the place rent free, to her, as a sort of protégée."

"Curiouser and curiouser!" commented Anne.

"Well, anyway, I think we should be nice to Mrs. Eldon," said Edith. "I'm having her in to lunch on Thursday," said Edith. "And I'd like it if you would all rally round. The club, I think, will make it a buffet lunch, because I couldn't possibly seat thirty-four women."

By the time the little group broke up it was all planned, and each of the women had agreed to give a tea or a luncheon for the newcomer.

Chapter 4

BETSY awoke that morning and lay still for a long time, as consciousness began to sweep through her. And then, as she came fully awake, the realization crashed upon her.

Pete was coming home today.

His train was due at ten o'clock. She got under the shower, toweling herself vigorously.

She had yearned for the moment when she could stand before Pete, in all the glory of being grown-up, and see the look of delighted surprise in his eyes. His letters had told her that he still thought of her as a long-legged, coltish brat with braces on her teeth and carrot-colored hair. He wouldn't know that her hair had darkened until now she wore pink and it was vastly becoming. He wouldn't know that her skin was clear and fresh, faintly tinged with a very becoming tan. Pete wouldn't know anything about her. And suddenly it seemed to her an unbearable thing that to him she would always be just an awkward, freckle-faced child.

Her mother's voice called up to her:

"Betsy, aren't you ever coming down for breakfast? Esther's made waffles and they're grand."

"Be right with you," she called back, trying hard to sound gay and casual.

She got into a blue and white print dress left over from last summer. It had faded a bit in the wash, and was one of the cotton dresses she kept for work in the garden, or when she was "playing around" with the gang on purses that did not require formal dressing. She brushed her hair back carelessly, thrust a comb into it made a face at herself in the mirror, and went down the stairs.

George standing with Edith at the door, was leaving for the office. He grinned at Betsy.

"Hi, chum," he greeted her. "You look about ten years old."

She tried to smile at him, muttering something, and went into the dining room. Edith and George exchanged anxious glances.

"Oh, how I've dreaded this day," Edith confessed.

George nodded. "I know. Thank the Lord it's only twelve hours long. His train gets in at ten."

"Yes, Mrs. Marshall said he'd rather not be met with a reception committee or anything, that he just wanted to come home as though he'd been away for a short trip. I guess his nerves are pretty well banged up," said Edith.

"Then the kid won't be there?" asked George hopefully.

"Nothing short of a broken neck could keep her home," George sighed; then he kissed the top of Edith's head and said, trying hard to be gay. "Well, we'll have to look on this as a sickness. We pulled her through typhoid, remember? And double whopper cough, and a few less serious childhood ailments. I guess we can see her through this."

"I hope so," said Edith, and managed to send him away with a smile.

A LITTLE later, as Betsy came downstairs, still wearing the faded blue and white cotton dress, Edith said:

"Aren't you going to the station to meet Peter?"

"Of course," returned Betsy curiously.

"You haven't much time to dress."

"I'm dressed. What difference does it make what I wear or how I look?" Betsy burst out. "Pete won't know the difference."

And then she was gone, hurrying out through the open door and down the walk before Edith could speak.

A few minutes before train-time, a neat dark sedan stopped at the edge of the station yard. Mrs. Marshall, trim and smart in her suit of printed silk, a hat made mostly of white violets perched becomingly on her carefully waved hair, got out. As she came along the platform, she was pulling on white gloves and there was a cluster of white violets pinned to her jacket.

Watching her, Betsy suddenly felt frowsy, in her last summer's cotton dress, her mahogany colored curls guileless of a hat, socks and scuffed saddle-shoes on her feet. She flushed, as she went to meet Mrs. Marshall, who greeted her affectionately and carefully veiled her look of disapproval.

"Well, Betsy, our long wait is over. Our boy is coming home. Won't it be grand to see him again?"

George would be even grander if he could see us," muttered Betsy and caught her lower lip hard between her teeth.

"Betsy, you must pull yourself together," Mrs. Marshall said it quietly, but there was a note of sternness in her voice. "We've got to treat Peter exactly as though nothing has happened. We mustn't break down. He needs our comfort and our cheer—not our tears!"

Betsy tossed her head and said huskily, "Of course—" But her words were cut off by the sound of a train whistle.

Mrs. Marshall gave her a glance that was almost hostile, and then turned as the train slid to a halt.

Mrs. Marshall walked a few steps away from Betsy, who stood as though rooted to the spot. The conductor swung down and a young man appeared at the top of the steps—a tall young man much thinner than Betsy had been prepared to see. He was still in uniform, with the bars of a lieutenant on his shoulder, and his thin face seemed paler because of the dark glasses that shielded his eyes.

"Hello, there, son!" Mrs. Marshall called out.

"Home at last, Mom. It's swell to see you!" Peter's voice rang with such boyish delight that Betsy could scarcely keep back the tears.

They clung together for a long moment. Mrs. Marshall smiled at Peter, though her face was white and taut.

Still clinging to his hand, she said—and Betsy marvelled at her poise—"There's someone else here to greet you, darling."

"Oh, Mom, not a committee?"

"No, Mom, not a committee!" Peter grinned. "You promised—"

"A committee of two, darling. Just Betsy and me," Mrs. Marshall turned to Betsy, a stern command in her eyes.

"Betsy!" Peter grinned and held out his hand. "Betsy, you nice kid! This makes coming home perfect."

It was then that Betsy disgraced herself, in her own eyes as well as in Mrs. Marshall's. She gave a little choked cry of heart break and jerked her hand free of Peter's. Then she ran blindly along the platform of two, that street—away from that tall, white-faced boy with his shadowed, sightless eyes.

Behind her, Mrs. Marshall ground her teeth in anger, as Peter's face went taut and his jaw clamped hard.

"Sorry—I seem to have upset the youngster," said Peter.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

DEFENSE NEEDED IN TOURNAMENT PLAY
BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

When the first official world's championship was held in Bermuda last November, the American team won. An important reason for the victory was the tight brand of defense that our team displayed.

In the hand shown today, for example, both the Americans and the British got to a flimsy contract of four hearts. The American defenders defeated the contract at one table, while the English defenders let the contract be made at the other table.

When George Rapee played the South hand at four hearts for America, he let West hold the first trick with the king of diamonds. West shifted to the eight of clubs, and East won with the club ace.

Now East had a terrible problem. He needed two more tricks to defeat the contract. Did his partner have the ace of spades, or had he shifted to a singleton club?

After much anxious thought East returned a club. This was duck soup for Rapee, of course. He won the club, drew trumps, and ran the clubs to discard both of his losing spades. Thus he made his contract with an overtrick.

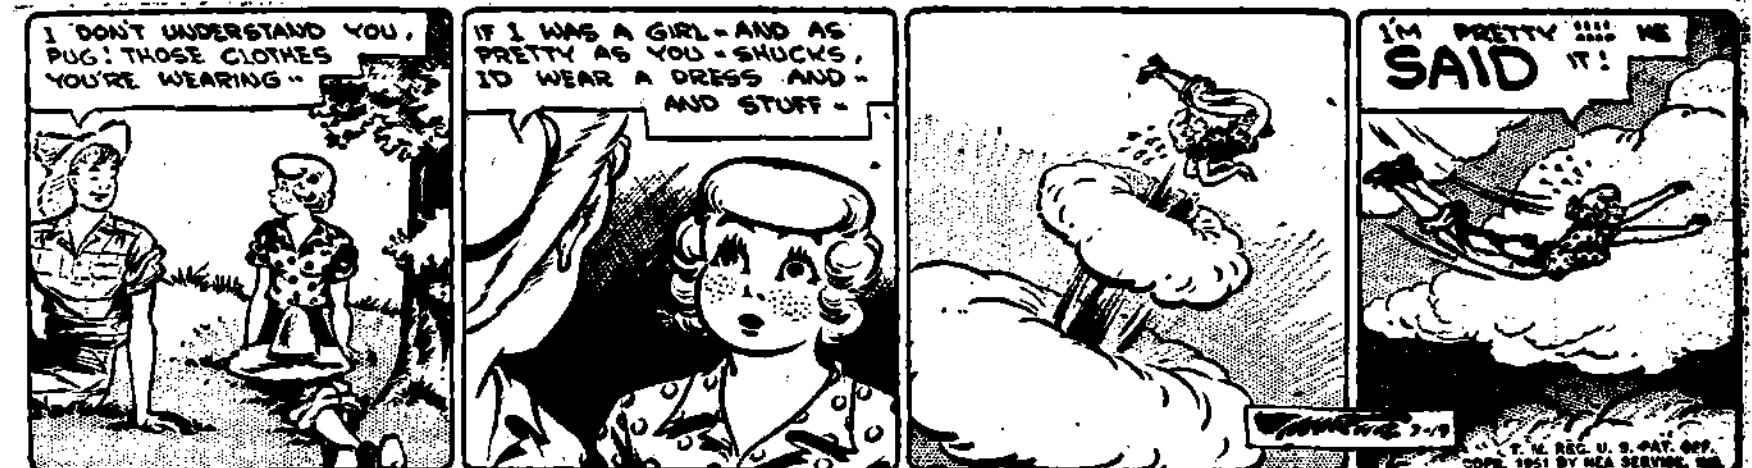

In the other room the English declarer also let West hold the first trick with the king of diamonds. The American defender, Sidney Silodor, of Philadelphia, gave his partner no problems.

Silodor knew that his side needed three more defensive tricks. They would be available if his partner had the ace of clubs and one of the black kings. In either case it could do no harm to lay down the ace of spades to eliminate all further guesswork.

weak defenses as a general thing. On the contrary, they play magnificently. Fortunately for us, our team played even better.

Erie OPS Office To Enlarge Staff

The Erie District Office of Price Stabilization has received instructions to enlarge its office staff by the addition of specialized personnel to handle the increasing volume of work incident to the broadening scope of ceiling price regulations for business and industry.

The position of price economist requires that applicants have specialized education and experience in the field of economics such as commodity studies, general economic and business studies; price, industry or marketing studies.

Applicants for the position of investigator must have had responsible experience in conducting investigations, in the practice of law, or in positions requiring a thorough familiarity with business records, trade practices of industrial or commercial concerns.

TO LAY OFF 1,000
GE spokesmen at Erie Monday confirmed reports it will lay off "between 800 and 1,000 people" following the August vacation period but blamed the layoffs on shortage of critical materials rather than on declining refrigerator sales. The spokesman, declaring that the length of the layoff "depends entirely on world conditions," said the move is in compliance with "government regulations in the third quarter of 1951, which provides for further restrictions in the allocation of basic materials." The spokesman, referring to charges by union officials at GE that an "artificial slowdown" was being put into effect by the company, said GE has "maintained maximum production in accordance with restrictive regulations."

ENTERS PLEA
Wayne C. Dase, 22, of Clarendon R. D. 1, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of using an automobile without the consent of the owner when he was arraigned by state police and Deputy Sheriff Sandy Seor before Justice of the Peace Tracy M. Greenlund this morning. Dase was remanded to the county jail in default of $500 bail to await hearing in court. He was apprehended by state police at Imperial, Pa., after a teletype message had been sent out from Warren, and was returned here by local officers on Tuesday. Dase allegedly took a car owned by Thomas H. Watson, of Bear Lake, saying he was going to Corry on June 12. He never returned, but had found employment on a farm downstate. Officers also recovered the car and returned it to its owner.

WILD SCRAMBLE—Boys and girls scramble in the wading pool at Crescent Park in quest of several dozen fish of assorted sizes which were placed in the pool for Huck Finn Day activities. The fish were caught the night before by S. E. Kuhre, Bob Kuhre, George Smith, Dick Arnold and Warren Yeagle.

Richard Hennessey, age 15, 31 Henlock street, was taken to Warren General Hospital about 10 p. m. yesterday where it was found that he suffered only abrasions about the chest as the result of being struck by a truck while riding his bicycle at Pennsylvania and Market. Operator of the truck was Lee Shorts, of Clarendon. Hennessey was discharged after treatment.

Letters to the Editor

Warren, Pa., July 18, 1951.

Dear Editor:

There has been so much in the paper about rafts that I think readers are getting tired of the word, but this is in answer to an item by Mrs. H. E. White, also a letter of thanks to all those who helped with my raft project.

Mrs. White spoke of her grandfather, who spent most of his life on the river, mentioning that some of his trips took three or four months to complete. This was a true statement, yet a man that thought he knew all about the river said, "How in sam hill could Mr. Hollister be so long on a trip when they used to make it in four or five days," so I would like to explain. The great difficulty that confronted the raftsmen on the upper Allegheny was the shortage of the running season. If the raft remained here at Warren after the spring water or a June fresh, they had to be unrafted and put back on the bank, so they had to do what they called "double trip" it.

This does not mean two trips but it means this: Suppose I was a jobber or owner and had five rafts to run. I would hire Mr. Hollister as a pilot and as soon as our raft was ready, he would take it with a crew of men down 50 or 60 miles and come back and get the next one and so on until I had five in deeper water. The crew would walk back, or take the train, if there was one, then all five rafts would again be removed by the same method 50 to 75 miles further downstream, then on to Louisville, Ky.

By this time leaves would be turning red and fall was imminent.

I would also like to pay tribute to that fine man, Mr. Hollister. I made his acquaintance fifty years ago when he was running a raft for the Grunderville proper. Some of our Warren boys were his oarsmen. Several years later I ran across him at a barn raising at Yankee Bush, and we had a good chat reminiscing about old times.

If I was to say that Mr. Hollister was the best pilot on the river that would be wrong, but he was one of the best.

Yours,
Ed Honhart.

Dear Sir:

A while back I read a few letters about (dogs versus Vivisection). I for one am not in favor of it. A lot of people put in complaints and wrote letters protesting against it.

But—What about these individuals who don't want their dog and take him out in the country for a ride in their car and drop him off for some one else to look after. I have lived in the country for

From Bloomers to Bikinis

The first World War changed a lot of things, including bathing suits. These are some California damsels in the advanced styles of 1920. Stripes were the thing, and you can see a definite trend away from the form-fitting fashions of earlier years. But there are still some left-overs of the pantaloons-and-long-sleeve era. They all wear some stockings, either long or rolled down below the knee. And the bathing suits are all skirted (although briefly) with trunks underneath. The low sandal had just about replaced the high, laced bathing shoe, but the girl at the right hadn't heard that story yet. Not all of the 1920 beauties went in for the form-fitting suits, however. Here is Margaret Gorman, Miss America of 1921. Her outfit is as form-fitting as a tent. But her dainty dimpled knee is peeking.

25 years, and over that period of time I bet more than 100 dogs and cats have been dropped off, left to starve.

Most people have dogs of their own and do not care for the burden of three or four more. Just because we have lots of room in the country doesn't mean we run a dog farm.

It is one of the worst things a human being can do is to raise a dog, teach him to love you then drop him along the roadside alone and unwanted, with no available food.

I do hope after reading this they will stop and think before they take their dog for a ride in the country and leave him off to starve, after all that is torture too. And also very poor sportsmanship for the wild game in the woods are targets with starving dogs running wild.

Jersey Joe Walcott Flattens Ezzard Charles in 7th Round

Pittsburgh, July 19.—(AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, an amazing old man of the ring who wouldn't be felled, today held the world's heavyweight championship in an astounding climax to an almost unbelievable saga of the ring.

Today plans were in motion for a September return meeting between the Brown Cinderella man and the beaten champion, Ezzard Charles, either in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlantic City or New York. Pittsburgh, with a city record turnout of 28,272 for its first heavyweight title show at Forbes Field, looked the likely winner of the 8th plume.

At 37, Jersey Joe last night became the oldest man ever to win boxing's most prized bauble when he flattened the superbly conditioned Charles in 55 seconds of the seventh round of their 15-round bout. A left hook to the jaw sent Charles to the canvas.

It was the ancient Camden batter's fifth crack at the championship—two more chances than any other challenger ever got at the heavyweight crown—and the devoted father of six said, "I thank God for the chance and for helping me to win."

"I'm thankful to everyone," said Walcott who had twice seen the crown slip out of his eager fingers. "I'm going to be a fighting champion—and Charles will get his chance."

"I got him with a left hook to the jaw," said Joe with a big grin on his face. Only moments before tears coursed down his cheeks as he realized his glorious moment of triumph.

"I just got hit," said the crestfallen Charles in the stillness of a loser's dressing room. "Did I hear the count? I heard five—I guess," he said. Charles, who had a lump under his right eye and a cut on his lower lip that required two stitches.

Few besides Walcott and his manager, slim dapper Felix Boonchichio, gave the slope-shouldered, shuffling old-timer a chance in his third bout with Charles, a very able but cautious champion who was defending his crown for the ninth time. Charles, who had whipped Walcott decisively twice before, was a nominal 5 to 1 favorite but there was hardly any betting.

A perfect left hook dropped Charles on his face. The champ tried to pull himself up at the count of nine. He partially raised himself and then toppled on his back—out.

Walcott was ahead at the time of the knockdown. Referee Buck McTierman had him in front, 5-1; Judge Charley Daggert—subject of a violent Mintz protest that held up the fight ten minutes and brought a suspension to Jake—had Walcott ahead 4-1-1, while Judge Stewart (Red) Robinson had it even, 3-3. The AP scorecard had Walcott in the lead, 4-2.

Lutherans Whip the New Process, 22-4

First Lutheran softballers went wild in YMCA-Church League competition last night, when they blasted out 25 hits to wallopp the New Process 22 to 4.

Don Pratt went the nine innings on the mound for the victors, allowing 14 hits. Mellander pitched for New Process.

Leading the Lutheran's attack were catcher Phil Colvin and A. Anderson. Colvin hit out four singles and a double at six times at bat and scored four runs, while Anderson slammed out three singles, a triple, and a home run, in six times at the plate. Hovanic, Wigle, and Benson, lead New Process batters with three for four.

Score by innings:

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

Hornell is riding a four-game winning streak in the PONY League and knocking on the doors of the leaders, Jamestown and Olean.

The Dodgers made it four last night by slapping Batavia, 7-2. Jamestown was set down, 7-3, by Wellsville, and Bradford dropped Olean, 7-2.

The win moved Hornell to within two games off the pace. Jamestown still is ahead of Olean by a half game.

In the other game, Hamilton beat Corning, 5-3, with a four-run uprising in the fourth inning.

POWERED FOR THE JOB
Two great engines to meet your needs! The 92-h.p. Thriftmaster for greatest economy. The big 105-h.p. Loadmaster engine for greater power.

VALVE-IN-HEAD DESIGN
No other truck-engine design can match the over-all economy and proved efficiency of Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines.

Blue-Flame COMBUSTION
Wrings all the usable energy from every drop of gasoline. Blue-Flame combustion is possible only with valve-in-head engine design.

POWER-JET CARBURETOR
At low speed, on grades or at regular highway speeds, Chevrolet's Power-Jet carburetor maintains the proper fuel mixture for the engine.

LONG-LASTING BRAKES
The greater self-energization of Chevrolet hydraulic brakes provides smoother, safer braking—completely equalized pressure to each brake.

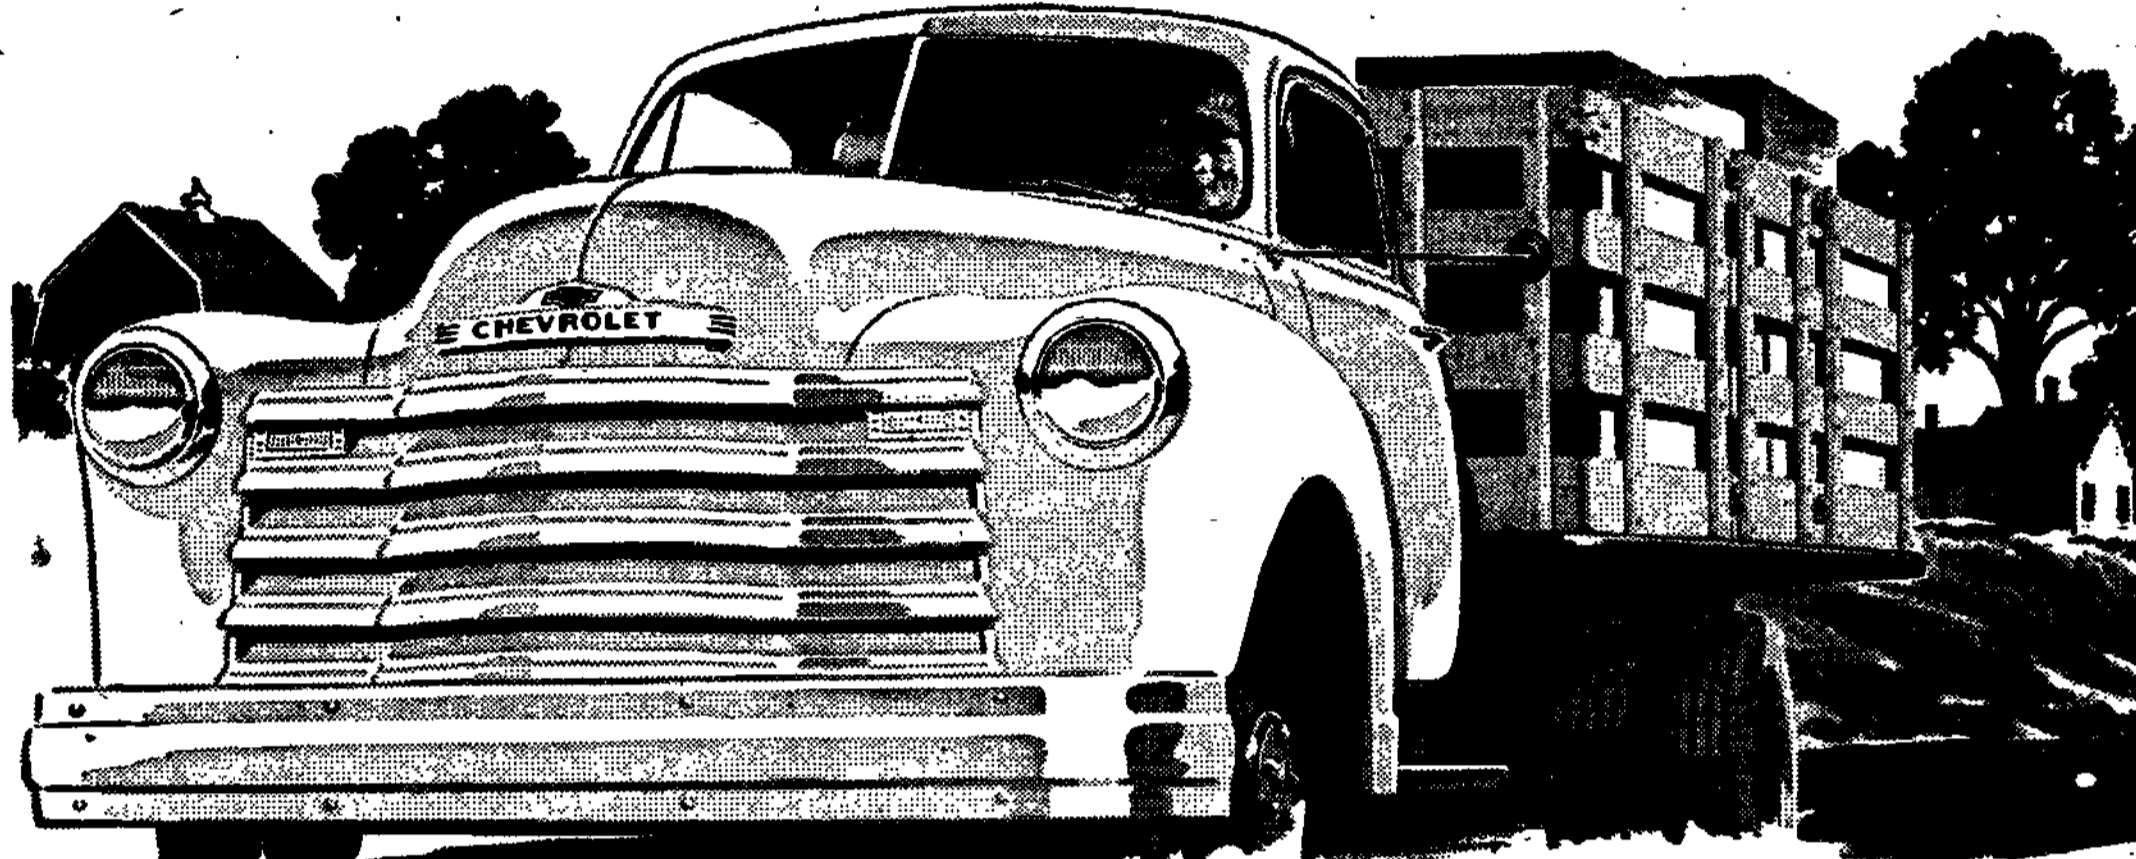

BONDED BRAKE LININGS
No rivets! On light- and medium-duty models (Series 3000). Using a bonded directly to brake shoes to increase life and eliminate scoring.

Game Cancelling Disappoints Fans

A fair-sized crowd which turned out at the State Hospital field last night to watch a Sunset Baseball League game was disappointed when the game failed to get off.

Both teams, Sons of Italy and Hammond Iron, were at the field for the game, but Hammond Iron, the home club, was unable to produce two new balls as required by league rules.

The Sons of Italy refused to play the game until the Ironmen came forth with the new balls, so the whole thing was finally called off after much vocalizing on the part of both clubs.

A league meeting will be called in the near future to settle the dispute. The game was an important one for both clubs, because the first half leadership of the Sunset League hinged on the outcome.

Meanwhile, another first-half makeup game is scheduled for tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the State Hospital field when Hammond Iron plays the Florida Co.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

By The Associated Press

Rudy York, former Major League player, hit his 30th home run of the year last night—just eight games away from the Middle Atlantic League season record—but his Oil City team-mates dropped the game 23-13 to Lockport.

York's clout came in the fourth inning with the bases loaded. The MA record was set by Frank Wells of Beckley (W. Va.), in 1931.

Niagara Falls won its game from New Castle 7-6 when Pitcher Ed Smreka singled in the ninth to drive in the winning run. It was Smreka's third hit of the game. He drove in two runs and scored himself.

The league leading Erie Sailors staged a four-run rally in the ninth to beat the Butler Pirates 9-7. A big fifth inning put Butler out in front, when the Pirates scored all seven runs. But the lead was short lived.
